Doug Smith is the former captain of the Ottawa 67's, first round, 2nd pick overall to the Los Angeles Kings hockey franchise and author of the upcoming book "Transition from Impact & NHL". (www.dougsmithconnected.com)

With success spanning 3 industries and having experienced some of the highest levels of transitional pain sustainable, Doug is an advocate of continuous learning whether on the battle field or off. "Success is all about deciding to change, believing you can pull it off and beginning right now."

After a broken neck and spinal cord injury ended Doug's professional hockey career, he moved on through very early internet adoption, networking, practical and formal education, technology sales and executive positions. In 2003 he Co-Founded Arc Stainless Inc., a turnkey stainless steel design/engineer and fabrication company in West Ottawa focussed on the health care, biotech and technology sectors. He is currently President of Arc Stainless. (www.arcstainless.com)

A much sought after speaker and host, Doug resides in Ottawa, on the banks of the Ottawa River where he grew up, with his wife, Patti, daughters Jenna and Jamie; and their Portuguese water dog aptly named, Loca.
